Masked Men Hold up Train.

By Associated Press.
Memphis, April 23.—The fast express train of the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad, which left Memphis at 11:40 last night, was held up by three masked men at Bridge Junction, Arkansas, about midnight last night. It is not known what booty the robbers secured, but it is reported that the express messenger and the porter of the train were injured after resisting the bandits. The Wells Fargo Express Company usually make heavy shipments to west on this train. The train left Memphis with a heavy passenger list.

RENEWED

Military Activity is Officially Reported From Manchuria.

By Associated Press.
London, April 23.—According to a dispatch from St. Petersburg, official information is received that renewed military activity is beginning in Manchuria.
The Chinese troops are strongly entrenched at three points around Mukden. They are armed with Mauser rifles and have thirty Krupp guns.
Adl. Alekiff organized an expedition to operate against the points mentioned. The first movement was successfully carried out in the beginning of April. Kula, near Mukden, was stormed and the ex-Governor of Mukden, was taken prisoner. The Russians had thirteen men killed and four officers and eighteen men were wounded. Advance toward the Turchausen position was then begun.
The situation in southern Manchuria is quieting and another advance of Russian troops will be necessary in the early spring.

New Grocery.

The new grocery of Ed Koerner & Son on Putnam street, was opened to the public for the first time Tuesday afternoon. The goods had been all stored on the shelves last week but on Sunday were removed owing to the rapidly rising waters. The room is very attractive, the furnishings are new and the goods fresh, three important items which customers consider when making purchases.
Mr. Ed Koerner has not yet arrived from Pittsburg, his delay being probably caused by the high water, but he will arrive in the city to take charge of the business.

WIFE WATCHED

Her Recreant Husband, Dressed in Man's Apparel.

Special to the Leader.
Mt. Clemens, Mich., April 23.—Some time ago the wife of Samuel Jobse, of this city, applied for a divorce, and since then there has been considerable litigation between the two. The divorce case is now pending in the circuit court, and it has been adjourned several times on account of the husband having been declared by his doctors too sick to attend.
Mrs. Jobse was satisfied that the plea of sickness was only a ruse, and she determined to prove that such was the case. Last night, after dressing herself in man's apparel, she laid in wait near the house in which her husband was living (he remaining in bed during the daytime) and awaited developments.
At last her vigil was rewarded. Jobse opened the door, looked around, and then started down town. After proceeding some distance he became aware of the fact that he was being followed, and started on a run. The wife set out in pursuit, and, having no skirts to interfere with her sprinting ability, was fast overtaking the fugitive, when she stumbled and fell headlong to the ground. She got his hat, however, which fell off in his flight. Jobse escaped by hiding in some woods, but his wife has proved to her own satisfaction that he was shamming and is satisfied.

BURIED ALIVE

Was a Two Weeks' Old Babe by a Heartless Couple.

By Associated Press.
New York, April 23.—By the merest chance a two weeks' old baby, buried alive by a man and woman, was discovered by Patrick McEver, a laborer of Hastings, just in time to save it from death by suffocation. The child had been thrown alive, by the man and woman, into a hole about three feet deep, which the couple had scooped out with their hands. A little cape worn by the baby had in some way fallen over the face. This kept the earth away and held the air for a moment. McEver threw aside the freshly upturned earth and brought to light the little victim just as it was about to give its last gasp. A man and woman who answered in every way the description were arrested an hour later.
The man said he was Givori Dutta-cavolo, of Manhattan. He said he was married and had three children. The woman said she was Francisca Stinella, 18 years old, a dress maker and unmarried. She denied that the babe was hers. Both were committed without bail to jail.

FOUR COLONELS

Capture a Huge Alligator After a Fierce Struggle.

Ar. F. E. McGrew tells the Leader of a brave act that occurred Tuesday just at noon, in which Colonels G. L. Clark, J. W. Hughes, W. B. Gaitree and John Russell figured as the heroes.

According to Mr. McGrew's story, Col. Gaitree, with his eagle eye, discovered a large alligator swimming near the middle of the Muskingum in front of the Elk's building, and an expedition was at once organized to capture him.

After a fierce struggle, in which all four of the brave Colonels came near losing their lives his gatorship was landed and taken to the Elk's Club rooms, where he is now on exhibition. He is forty-one feet, one inch in length and is thought to be crossed between the Ohio and Muskingum varieties.

ARISTOCRACY OF GENIUS

Is Advocated by Senator Chauncey M. Depew, of New York.

Special to the Leader.

New York, April 23.—Speaking at a dinner at the Montauk club in Brooklyn, Senator Chauncey M. Depew decried the tendency to great wealth, which he said was too prevalent in this country, and put in a strong plea for an aristocracy of genius.

"Our millionaire exclusives," he said, "bar the doors and refuse to let in upon a social equality these representatives of intelligent achievement. They seek to make all except the possessors of exaggerated incomes socially second class."

"The result is seen in the resentment which well informed people are discovering to exist and to be growing among those who educate, who form and who guide public opinion and whose teaching ultimately crystallize into laws against the holding or devising of great wealth."

"We can never have a social life as full and rich, as valued and valuable, as our prodigality of genius and culture could make distinguished or raise it above gossip, frivolity, shop and local affairs, or as that of the great capitals of the old world, until those who have been blessed with the abundance which enables them to entertain shall recognize the power and pleasure of the salon with its infinite variety of talent and acquisitions regardless of money."

The occasion was the Senator's tenth birthday celebration, as the Montauk club of Brooklyn sees it, for since the organization began giving him a dinner on the important anniversary, he may be considered as having begun to live.

Bridge whist, billion-dollar combinations, the honesty and high purpose of the United States Senate, were deftly touched by the spell of his after dinner oratory.

"Society journals," said the Senator, "say that we must learn to play bridge whist or drop out, and, if out, we can never get in our best society. There are other social occupations than bridge whist and the gamble."

"In Tallyrand's world and period, a life of dissimulation and lying, in an atmosphere where it was honorable, if successful, to deceive and even sell out one's party or country, by the time the man passed his meridian his rottenness had been so thoroughly discovered that he could only play solitaire or cards with as great liars and cheats as himself. But for us, happily, the infinite variety and kaleidoscopic opportunities for activities in useful, improving and enjoyable paths were never so great as in this year of grace."

Speaking of the big steel combination Mr. Depew said:
"Marvelous as has been the development of corporate combinations and capitalizations, it is not nearly as wonderful as the advance in public opinion in the twelve months."

"The animal most frequently seen upon the pages of a large portion of the press of the United States during the canvass of 1900 and brought out upon the platform at every meeting of one party, was the octopus. It frightened millions of voters."

"A billion-dollar corporation formed in October might have reversed the November verdicts, and yet such has been the march of public opinion, owing to the marvelous conditions which have come up within a few months, that the formation of a $1,000,000,000 company frightens nobody, and is not even the subject of extended editorial comment in the pages of The Commonwealth."

The Senator said that he was greatly impressed with the United States Senate and was sure that it might be taken for granted that the members represented the intelligence and character of their districts.

He rebuked the tendency of nations to loot China and congratulated the country on the happy termination of her foreign policies.

Short of Food Near Massillon.

By Associated Press.
Massillon, O., April 23.—Owing to the impossibility of the country roads the people of the village of Richville, southeast of here were short of food over Saturday and Sunday. The resumption of travel today relieved the condition. The river has not risen as rapidly today as yesterday but the indications are for rain and the people on the lowlands along the river are moving to the hills.

Operations at three glass factories are suspended because of the gas pressure being too low. Four hundred men are idle. Fourteen trains on the Pennsylvania Line were stalled in the snow a few miles west of here but the trains are now going through on time.

Holds Its Ground.

This is Testimony from Everywhere as Well as Marietta.

Can this be so? Is it true? Are the facts as stated? These are the questions which every man and woman asks as they read the published accounts in newspapers about medicines which claim to cure it. What ever the conclusion arrived at they can't flinch from or disprove the following from it took place in Marietta and the experience is that of a citizen.

Mrs. Elmer Able, of 400 Lancaster street, says: "Mr. Able values Doan's Kidney Pills very highly. The use of a box ended trouble with his kidneys which had annoyed him for some time. After the lapse of nearly a year he felt a slight return. Procuring a second box at W. H. Styer's drug store, the treatment proved as valuable as when the remedy was first brought to his notice."

Sold for 50 cents per box by all dealers. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

WENT SOUTH

For His Health, But the Hoped-for Relief Failed to Come.

The following taken from the Courier-Informant at Bartow, Fla., of Wednesday, April 3rd, 1901, will doubtless prove of interest to our readers:

About three months ago Mr. James E. Breckenridge came to Bartow, from Watertown, Ohio, accompanied by a younger brother to spend the remainder of the winter here, and try to escape the threat of consumption, which was manifestly making its appearance in his system. Mr. D. C. Green, who was a few years from the same state and now lives on Polk Lake a few miles east of town, met these young men and, learning that they were seeking a quiet retreat in the dry, high pine lands of the country, took them to what is known as the "Old William Wallace farm" on the ridge east of Peace River, some six or seven miles southeast of Bartow.

The young men being favorably impressed with the place, and its surroundings, located there.

Here they came and went indoors, and out, won the hearts of their kind neighbors, and were getting on nicely in every way. A short time ago, however, the unwell man made a trip to Sarasota hoping the change and variety would hasten the apparent steps toward recovery, but from some cause a severe cold attacked him and he had to be brought quickly.

The dreaded disease with which he was threatened when he came to Florida, reinforced by the cold, made rapid progress, and, amid the solicitous care of neighbors and the ministering attentions of his brother, he peacefully came to the end early last Monday morning. His age was about 29 years. His brother is younger. They are both represented as young men of noble character. The sad duty devolved on the disconsolate brother of taking the corpse back to his home in Ohio for interment. The body was embalmed by Undertaker J. L. Wirt, of this city, and they left Bartow on the 10:30 train Tuesday morning. Sad, indeed, will be the return to his parents and friends in the distant state. To all of these we extend our deep sympathy. The devotion of the younger brother is spoken of as very beautiful.
